

Conference 2015
March 7th 2015 Cardiff

Call for Abstracts

Dear fellow medical students,
we are now taking abstract submissions for the NSAMR 2015
conference in Cardiff.

This is a great opportunity to display your research at a national conference through a poster or oral presentation and meet other medical students from across the UK with a similar passion for academic medicine. There are also many reasons to attend even if you are not presenting, as there will be interesting plenary speakers, workshops and networking opportunities.

Additional reasons to attend:

- Inspirational plenary speakers from Cardiff, UK and Europe
- Networking opportunities with medical students from across the UK
- Poster and oral presentations – abstracts published by Cambridge Medicine Journal (CMJ)
- Many prizes in both categories
- Exciting workshops to help you develop your skills, get involved with research and learn about specialist topics
- Free oral and poster presentation live stream ahead of the conference for all successful abstracts
- If you want, we will even share contact information with other students travelling from the same location
